

A B S T R A C T

A disposable diaper according to the present invention includes mechanical tape fasteners, and the tape fasteners extend outwards from transversely opposite side edges of a disposable diaper and are provided on their front surfaces with hook members. Each of the hook members have their front surfaces partially coated with adhesive by means of which the hook members are peelably bonded to release zones formed of material such as a plastic sheet in the proximity of the side edges of the diaper.